WEDNESDAY, January 11, 1749.

A FABLE.

The LAWYER, and JUSTICE.

LOVE! thou divineſt good below,
Thy pure delights few mortals know!
Our rebel hearts thy ſway diſown,
While tyrant luſt uſurps thy throne!
 The bounteous God of nature made
The ſexes for each other's aid,
Their mutual talents to employ,
To leſſen ills, and heighten joy.
To weaker woman he aſſign'd
That ſoft'ning gentleneſs of mind,
That can, by ſympathy, impart
It's likeneſs, to the roughest heart.
Her eyes with magic pow'r endu'd,
To fire the dull, and awe the rude.
His roſy fingers on her face
Shed laviſh ev'ry blooming grace,
And ſtamp'd (perfection to diſplay)
His mildeſt image on her clay.
 Man, active, reſolute, and bold,
He faſhion'd in a diff'rent mould,
With uſeful arts his mind inform'd,
His breaſt with nobler paſſions warm'd;
He gave him knowledge, taſte, and ſenſe,
And courage, for the fair's defence.
Her frame, reſiſtleſs to each wrong,
Demands protection from the ſtrong;
To man ſhe flies, when fear alarms,
And claims the temple of his arms.
 By nature's author thus declar'd
The woman's ſov'reign, and her guard,
Shall man, by treach'rous wiles invade
The weakneſs, he was meant to aid?
While beauty, given to inſpire
Protecting love, and ſoft deſire,
Lights up a wild-fire in the heart,
And to it's own breaſt points the dart,
Becomes the ſpoiler's baſe pretence
To triumph over innocence?
 The wolf, that tears the tim'rous ſheep,
Was never ſet the fold to keep;
Nor was the tyger, or the pard
Meant the benighted trav'ler's guard;
But man, the wildeſt beaſt of prey,
Wears friendſhip's ſemblance, to betray;
His ſtrength againſt the weak employs,
And where he ſhould protect, deſtroys.

 Paſt twelve o'clock, the watchman cry'd,
His brief the ſtudious Lawyer ply'd;
The all-prevailing fee lay nigh,
The earneſt of to-morrow's lie;
Sudden the furious winds ariſe,
The jarring caſement ſhatter'd flies;
The doors admit a hollow ſound,
And rattling from their hinges bound;
When Juſtice, in a blaze of light,
Reveal'd her radiant form to ſight.
 The wretch with thrilling horror ſhook,
Looſe ev'ry joint, and pale his look;
Not having ſeen her in the courts,
Or found her mention'd in reports,
He aſk'd, with falt'ring tongue, her name,
Her errand there, and whence ſhe came?
 Sternly the white-rob'd ſhade reply'd,
(A crimſon glow her viſage dy'd)
Can'ſt thou be doubtful who I am?
Is JUSTICE grown ſo ſtrange a name?
Were not your courts for Juſtice rais'd?
'Twas there, of old, my altars blaz'd.
My guardian thee did I elect,
My ſacred temple to protect,
That thou, and all thy venal tribe
Shou'd ſpurn the goddeſs for the bribe?
Aloud the ruin'd clients cries,
Juſtice has neither ears, nor eyes!
In foul alliance with the bar,
'Gainſt me the judge denounces war,
And rarely iſſues his decree,
But with intent to baffle me.
 She paus'd. Her breaſt with fury burn'd.
The trembling Lawyer thus return'd.
 I own the charge is juſtly laid,
And weak th' excuſe that can be made;
Yet ſearch the ſpacious globe, and ſee
If all mankind are not like me.
 The gown-man, ſkill'd in romiſh lies,
By faith's falſe glaſs deludes our eyes,
O'er conſcience rides without controul,
And robs the man, to ſave the ſoul.
 The doctor, with important face,
By ſly deſign, miſtakes the caſe;
Preſcribes, and ſpins out the diſeaſe,
To trick the patient of his fees.
 The ſoldier, rough with many a ſcar,
And red with ſlaughter, leads the war;
If he a nation's truſt betray,
The foe has offer'd double pay.
 When vice o'er all mankind prevails,
And weighty int'reſt turns the ſcales,
Muſt I be better than the reſt,
And harbour juſtice in my breaſt?
On one ſide only take the fee,
Content with poverty and thee?
 Thou blind to ſenſe, and vile of mind,
Th' exaſperated ſhade rejoin'd,
If virtue from the world is flown,
Will other's frauds excuſe thy own?
For ſickly ſouls the prieſt was made;
Phyſicians, for the body's aid;
The ſoldier guarded liberty;
Man woman, and the lawyer me.
If all are faithleſs to their truſt,
They leave not thee the leſs unjuſt.
 Henceforth your pleadings I diſclaim,
And bar the ſanction of my name;
Within your courts it ſhall be read,
That Juſtice from the law is fled.
 She ſpoke; and hid in ſhades her face,
'Till HARDWICKE ſooth'd her into grace.

HANOVER, September [illegible]

IF, contrary to all hopes, the ſigning the definitive treaty at Aix la Chapelle ſhould be delayed yet ſome time longer, his majeſty will celebrate his birth-day here; having, it is ſaid, determined not to return to London 'til after every thing is ſettled. It is aſſured that the marriage of his royal highneſs the duke of Cumberland with the princeſs Amelia of Pruſſia, was concluded before the departure of his Pruſſian majeſty for Sileſia.

Warſaw, Sept. 9. We have received the unhappy news, that a great fire has lately happened at Wengrow, whereby that place has been entirely reduced to aſhes.

Paris, Sept. 6. It is reported that marſhal Saxe has demanded 15000 men of the king, for an important expedition; which, it is ſaid, will not intereſt the powers that were heretofore at war.

Vienna, Sept. 7. It is aſſured that the king of Great Britain has cauſed repreſentations to be made to this court, tending to engage it to deſiſt from ſome pretenſions, which 'tis ſaid hinder the ſigning of the definitive treaty. It is not known what anſwer the empreſs queen has given thereto; but every body is perſuaded, that her Imperial majeſty is well diſpoſed to contribute all ſhe can to accelerate the general pacification.

Chamberry, Sept. 15. The Infant Don Philip is making preparations for his departure. Two days after that prince left the caſtle of Rochetta, it was reduced to aſhes by lightning. 'Tis reported that the marriage of the king of Sardinia with the ducheſs dowager of Guaſtalla, will ſoon be accompliſhed without any ceremony; and that of the duke of Savoy with madam Victoire of France, will be deferred 'til after the peace.

Paris, Sept. 30. According to letters from Genoa, dated the 17th, it appears, that the Piedmonteſe and Auſtrians begin to draw off from the frontiers of that ſtate: But the latter, as they retire, redouble their vexations at Parma, Placentia, and Guaſtalla, for the payment of the exorbitant contributions they have demanded there; which is look'd upon as a ſign, that they are ſoon entirely to quit the country.

According to ſome late letters from Leghorn, the Genoeſe mountaineers lately fell upon a party of the French, their profeſſed friends, and had entirely deſtroyed them all, if a body of Imperial Croats had not flew to the ſuccour of the latter, and fell upon the Highlanders, putting many to the ſword, and taking abundance of priſoners.

The laſt letters from Conſtantinople inform us, that three foreign powers began in the month of April laſt, to intrigue in the ſeraglio and the divan, in order to force the grand ſegnior to take part with them againſt the Houſe of Auſtria and Ruſſia; but having found his highneſs immoveable in the principles he had hitherto acted upon, they ſpirited up the different inſurrections which appeared in the months of June and July, the object of which was to dethrone the grand ſegnior, and place upon the throne one of the ſons of his brother.

The Spaniards have already embarked 140 of their invalids for Barcelona whither it is pretended the reſt of their troops will follow ſucceſſively: except the corps deſtined to accompany the Infant Don Philip into Lombardy.

Warſaw, Sept. 18. Letters from Podolia ſay, that they have received advice from Conſtantinople of a great revolution in that capital, on occaſion of which the Grand Segnior had been dethroned, and his nephew ſet up in his room. They add, that the Tartars diſliking the Cham which the Porte had appointed them, openly refuſed to acknowlege him, and had elected another among themſelves.

Paris, Sept. 27. The young pretender has hired the hotel of St. Paul, on the Theatins key, and will remove into it the firſt of October; from whence we conjecture, that the Britiſh court does not inſiſt upon his being ſent out of this kingdom, or elſe that his majeſty has refuſed to gratify them in this point. It is currently reported, that the king has bought up ſeveral Engliſh men of war, and is deſirous to take into his ſervice all the Engliſh ſeamen that are diſcharged.

Madrid, Sept. 27. The departure of madam of France, conſort to the infant Don Philip, is fixed for the beginning of October.

We have the diſagreeable news from Barcelona, that ſeveral tranſports which were bringing over from the iſland of Majorca, part of the regiment of Ireland have had the misfortune to be taken by three large Barbary pyrates. There were on board theſe tranſports twenty officers and one hundred ſoldiers, with their wives and children. The paſſage between Majorca and Barcelona being ſo ſhort, the government neglected to order a man of war or frigate to convoy theſe tranſports.

Cracow, Auguſt 30. Public prayers have been put up in all the public churches of this dioceſe, to beg of heaven a deliverance from the dreadful plague of locuſts; and many of our people, both rich and poor, are already vowing that they will go in pilgrimage to our lady of Loretto, and St. James of Compoſtella, if nothing elſe will rid us of thoſe inſects; nay, we are making intereſt with the whole hoſt of Heaven, both antient and modern ſaints, being reſolved not to loſe our ſuit for want of mediators and interceſſors. We hear from Zamoſc, that a great ſwarm of thoſe inſects having approached that town, they ſet all the bells a ringing, and made a great noiſe in all the adjacent fields with frying-pans, ſalt-boxes, butter-tubs, and firing piſtols, &c. by which means they ſoon frightened them away: But ſoon after a larger ſwarm appearing, the ſame method was tried in vain; the locuſts divided into two bands, one of which continued their flight towards Wilncaic; but the other deſpiſing the noiſe, would not ſtir, 'til they had laid ſome fields quite bare; and the next morning they followed the firſt diviſion. This ſecond ſwarm has been followed by a third much more numerous, having taken up above three hours in flying by the town.

L O N D O N.

Sept. 7. The Sallee rovers, and indeed moſt of the gallies belonging to the pyratical ſtates in Barbary, have taken advantage of the decline of the French marine, to make prizes upon their coaſts of Spaniſh and Italian veſſels, two of which they were lately ſo hardy as to cut out of the road of St. Tropez; upon which two frigates are fitting out at Marſeilles, which are to cruize upon thoſe coaſts, in order to oblige the corſairs to keep their diſtance, in purſuance of treaties, by which they ſtipulate not to come within ten leagues of the ſhore. It is whiſper'd at Marſeilles, that as ſoon as the peace is concluded, ſatisfaction will be demanded for thoſe inſults.

The conduct of the prince ſtadtholder at Amſterdam has been ſo equal and judicious, that neither party have had the leaſt cauſe to complain, his highneſs having entered that city without guards, to ſhew his confidence in the good affections of the burghers; and having obliged them, during the time their diſpute with the magiſtrates was in hearing, to pay them all the reſpects due to their quality and offices, which gave them the higheſt ſatisfaction: Nor were there any changes made in the regency, 'til each of the members had made a free reſignation, and declared himſelf willing to ſubmit to any regulation that his ſerene highneſs in his great wiſdom ſhould be pleaſed to make, purſuant to the full powers granted him for that purpoſe, by their noble mightineſſes the ſtates of Holland and Weſt Frieſland.

Sept. 8. It is generally expected, that in the enſuing ſeſſion of parliament, a very ſtrict enquiry will be made into the conduct of the governors of ſome of our colonies, in order to diſcover the true ſource of that ſpirit of diſſatisfaction and diſtraction, with which they have been diſturbed of late years, to the no ſmall detriment of the affairs of their mother country, as well as their own. Such an enquiry will probably correct all paſt miſtakes, or at leaſt produce a law, preſcribing ſuch rules as may prevent them for the future; and thereby hinder Engliſh planters from removing to Surinam, or any of the French iſlands.

Several grave politicians think, that our miniſters are too forward in leſſening our ſtrength both by ſea and land; but as to the return of the Ruſſians, it is as much owing to the repreſentations of the king of Pruſſia, as to thoſe of his moſt Chriſtian majeſty; the former having declared, that if the French attempt to draw any advantage from this ſtep, he will immediately join the Allies with double the number of his own troops. And this is the true reaſon why the Pruſſians are every where in motion.

We learn from Stockholm, that the health of his Swediſh majeſty continuing ſtill in a ſtate of great uncertainty and fluctuation, the commiſſion has been renewed, which enables three ſenators, who are in conſtant attendance, to ſign all papers of ſtate in his majeſty's name, which are likewiſe counterſigned by the ſecretary.

Letters from Paris, of the 13th inſtant, N. S. aſſure us, that the marriage of the prince of Piedmont with the French king's third daughter, will be ſhortly declared at court; and that whatever becomes of the definitive general treaty, they depend upon a peace with the court of Turin.

They write from Bruges, that troops daily paſs through that city, all taking the route of Dunkirk, Calais, &c.

An Extract of a Letter from Stockport, in Cheſhire, dated Auguſt 27.

" On the 23d of July we had here a moſt prodigious ſtorm of thunder and lightning, with the moſt violent rain ever ſeen, occaſioned by a cloud burſting, which in two hours time raiſed our river fifteen or twenty yards perpendicular, which has done incredible damage, at leaſt 10,000*l.* by which ſeveral families are ruin'd: It has deſtroyed almoſt all the land on the river, from Waley bridge for ſeveral miles downwards, and not only ruined the corn and graſs, but the land for ever. Several people loſt their lives; ſeveral houſes, outhouſes, corn mills, and other buildings, were taken down: Abundance of fine timber was carried down the river, hay, and a great many ſheep. Two women who were ſiſters were drowned in a little rivulet, in which ordinarily there does not run more water than would drown

drown a kitten. At Hesfield, a pariſh church about four miles above us, it waſhed the church-yard bare to the rock, and took ſeveral people out of their graves; ſo there were found next day hung in buſhes and trees a corpſe in one place, a coffin in another, a ſhroud in another. It has took down ſeveral ſtone, county, and other bridges, with all the walls and fences, for miles, and made a diſmal deſtruction. We have had very bad harveſt weather hitherto, by which a deal of corn is damaged; but now we have good weather."

BOSTON, November 28.

We hear from Annapolis-Royal, that on the 28th paſt, capt. Gorham, with 10 men and paddles, went to the eaſt of the harbour in St. John's river, and capt. Prebble and capt. Davis, commander of the Warren, with 5 oars-men, went to the weſtward of the harbour, to make diſcoveries; and going a-ſhore, were fired upon by the Indians, and one of capt. Prebble's men ſhot thro' the body, who died three days after; two of capt. Gorham's men were alſo kill'd, and three wounded. Capt. Prebble alſo narrowly eſcaped with his life; for ſeeing one of the Indians preſenting his gun at him, at about 80 yards diſtance, he ſtep'd behind a ſmall tree, in the center of which the ball lodged directly againſt his body: He immediately return'd the fire with a brace of balls, as did capt. Davis, which he hopes did execution: After which they retreated ſafely to the boat, and returned to the veſſels. They took two of the enemy, and brought them with them; one of whom is ſaid to be ſon to one of the chiefs, who afterwards made his eſcape.

ANNAPOLIS.

On Monday Evening laſt died, at his Plantation near this City, after a tedious Indiſpoſition for above ſeven Months, in the 51ſt Year of his Age, Capt. Ezekiel Gillis, one of the Gentlemen in the Commiſſion of the Peace for this County, in which Capacity, as well as that of a Huſband, Father, Maſter, Friend, and Neighbour, he acted as became a Chriſtian.

We have had a very ſevere Spell of cold Weather for almoſt a Fortnight paſt, which has quite froze up all our Rivers, and fill'd the Bay ſo full of Ice, that the like has not been ſeen ſince the hard Winter eight Years ago.

ADVERTISEMENTS.
